

Overnight Author

FREE EVENT FOR WRITERS

7pm March 5 until 7am March 6, Hornsey Library, Crouch End.

Calling all writers!

Do you fancy becoming a published author overnight?

Come to our springtime sleepover where writers will be gathering to write, edit, illustrate and publish their writings on the subject of dreams.

In just twelve overnight hours, you'll work with other writers and web geeks to create a beautiful published set of writings, based on your own experiences of dreams, good or bad. All you need to bring is your laptop and your sleeping bag. We'll provide the coffee and a special midnight feast to keep your energy levels up.

There'll be lots on hand to inspire you to write: on the library shelves are fascinating dream narratives; on the laptops, you can snatch Tweets about the worst nightmares in the Twitterverse; if you can't keep your eyes open, why not snuggle up in your sleeping bag to seek out a few fresh dreams to use in your writings.

To join, email chris@futureofthebook.org

